

The Eh Team Series Episode 3

Contributed by Landyachtz
Tuesday, 16 June 2009
Last Updated Saturday, 20 June 2009

Eh Team Series

Episode 3

Landyachtz is more stoked than ever to bring you the third installment of the Eh Team series, this time we follow the Loco Express as it barrels through America.

In Episode 2 the Loco Express left Vancouver, 4 days behind schedule, lacking break lights and turn signals, but boarder bound with 8 over tired and eager shredders stoked to be on the road. Now in Episode 3 we catch up with the crew in Malibu where they meet up with locals and hit legendary roads like Tuna and GMR. More passengers are added then off to Albuquerque to meet up with Timeship Racing for the biggest Ditch Slap ever.

This year saw over 60 riders make the pilgrimage to the holy land of ditches to face their fears and attempt to slay the ditches without being slapped. "I don't think anyone made it out with all of their skin" says one shredder; "People were throwing things at me" and "where did that big hole come from?" were other comments heard from riders hitting it hard. The footage is sick!

The Loco does some quick seat shuffling then it's off to Colorado to do some shredding in Avon with Robert McKendry III and then off to Boulder to be a part of the inaugural Buffalo Bill Downhill. The 2 day event saw 70 riders charge the switchbacks no holds barred making for a wicked event to be a part of.

With only a few days to make the haul back to Canada before Attack of Danger Bay 8, the Loco now packed with 10 must push it harder than ever to make the 1,466 mile trek with no time to spare. Check out www.landyachtz.com for previous and future Eh Team Episodes and www.locoexpress.ca for details on the Loco Express video coming out this Fall.

{youtube}oNqq0JAVqTs{/youtube}